

Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Saturday 15 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:

Drier this evening for most, but further showers approaching overnight.

This Evening and Tonight:

Any remaining showers will ease through the evening, lingering slightly in the east, allowing for some dry spells. However, further showers approach from the west overnight, these likely heavy and thundery in nature, especially as they make landfall over Cornwall. Minimum temperature 7 deg C (45 deg F).

Sunday:

Organised groups of showers continue to sweep eastwards across the region through the day, many of these heavy, carrying a risk of thunder. Turning dry in the west later. Maximum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:

Remaining unsettled, with showers and sunny spells through this period. Monday seeing the heaviest showers, with a risk of thunder. Drier on Tuesday and Wednesday, with less frequent showers.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.